ArtsWave invests in 24 regionwide projects as part of ongoing community campaign

CINCINNATI (April 14, 2022) – ArtsWave, the region's engine for the arts, announces its next set of project grants, approved last week by its Board of Directors after a highly competitive review process. These latest "Catalyzing Impact" grants total $165,000 for 24 organizations. Projects span 19 different neighborhoods from Covington to Clifton, to Finneytown and West Chester, as well as some with wide-reaching virtual programming.

The diverse set of funded arts activities show the variety of ways that the arts bring our community together after months of social isolation and how the arts help bridge cultural divides and make sense of challenging times. The Art Academy of Cincinnati's "Creative Recovery" program will work with Cincinnati Public Schools to make up for lost learning during the pandemic. The Village of Woodlawn will use ArtsWave funding to present a season of free events with theater, dance, music and visual art for residents. Queen City Opera will collaborate with the Nancy and David Wolf Holocaust and Humanity Center to present Verdi's "Requiem" to commemorate the resilience of those held in Nazi concentration camps.

Several projects showcase the region's multicultural communities. Joy Brasileira will debut "Brazil Day Cincinnati," planned as an annual event in Price Hill to celebrate Brazilian music, dance, culture, art and more. The Greater Cincinnati Chinese Cultural Exchange Association will facilitate a youth-driven cookbook project that shares the stories of Chinese culture, coming to America, and preserving their cultural traditions. Similarly, MAKETANK Inc will publish the illustrated memoirs of local immigrant and refugee high school students.

For this funding round, 64 organizations applied for grants, totaling more than $515,000 in requests – far more than funds currently available. The ongoing 2022 ArtsWave Community Campaign is raising money from the general public to support projects like these in subsequent "Catalyzing Impact" funding rounds. The Campaign also provides millions of dollars in essential year-over-year operating support for 40+ of the region's largest arts organizations. The combination of the Catalyzing Impact projects, plus ArtsWave's major sustaining support for institutions, leads to the Cincinnati's regions quality and variety of arts experiences and is directly attributable to ArtsWave Community Campaign support.

All approved projects were selected based on their ability to further ArtsWave's mission to create a more vibrant regional economy and more connected community, emphasizing one or more of the arts sector's Blueprint for Collective Action goals. A complete set of projects from this wave of funding is included at the end of this release.

About ArtsWave:

ArtsWave, a nonprofit serving the Greater Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky Region, is the engine for the arts. Its roots stem back to the late 1920s when the Cincinnati Taft family provided initial investment matched by community support. In the late 1940s, it evolved to become the first united arts fund in the nation and in the mid-1970s, the first organization to initiate workplace giving for the arts. ArtsWave continues to innovate while leading, as illustrated by its No. 1 rank nationally in community arts fundraising; coordination of a sector-wide Blueprint for Collective Action; piloting of new technologies to maximize arts engagement; and development of resources for the arts. Strong funding for the arts has allowed Cincinnati's arts and culture scene to become a national draw and regional asset, creating a wave of economic and community benefits. Each year, ArtsWave supports the work of over 100 arts organizations, school outreach programs, festivals, community centers, neighborhoods and various collaborations through impact-based grants. ArtsWave has set a goal of $11.5 million for its 2022 Campaign, an amount necessary for the arts, given the difficult health and economic crisis that has spanned nearly two years, affecting the entire region. Donations can be made at artswave.org/give.
